Graduate Summer Program in Global Health

University of Haifa, Israel

The 2017 Program

What? The University of Haifa School of Public Health is pleased to offer its 6th annual Graduate Summer Program in Global Health. Students will take courses in English and have a learning experience with an international perspective.

The comprehensive program offers graduate credit hours (equivalent to a full summer semester) through the University of Haifa. Students have the option of selecting from 6 courses, including an experiential learning course in Community Health.

Internships will offer students hands-on experience in the field of public health, while creating connections with Israeli health professionals.

Participants will also have the unique opportunity to visit key sites in Israel, such as the Sea of Galilee, Jerusalem, and more.

Where? University of Haifa, Israel

When? 14 June – 9 August, 2017

Who? Open to all students with Bachelor's degrees (or eligible to take graduate courses) and interests that vary from: public health, global health, health services research, social work, international affairs, and public administration.
